Baptism Registers & their Online Availability

by Cliff Webb

Introduction

A growing number of parish records are becoming available online, and thus easily available to researchers around the world. However, it can be very difficult for the most assiduous researcher to find out what exists, and what is, and is not, covered by any online search.

The purpose here is to provide a full list of surviving London and Middlesex Baptism records, and show any online sites they appear in.

The first online resource covered is the LDS Church's International Genealogical Index (IGI) (www.familysearch.org/), very useful, not least because it is free to use.

Ancestry.Com has partnered with London Metropolitan Archives to put a large number of registers online at: (www.cityoflondon.gov.uk/Corporation/LGNL\_Services/Leisure\_and\_culture/Records\_and\_archives/)

This is a very large amount of material, and has been dealt with in a separate section, see page 21.

Dockland Ancestors (www.parishregister.com/) in association with FindMyPast (www.findmypast.com/) have put a large number of (mainly East End) registers online, and this list is also growing.

In a final column of the list are given those baptism registers of which there are copies at the Society of Genealogists, London (www.sog.org.uk/) but which are not yet available online.

The situation is too fluid for us to continue to produce this as a hard copy leaflet. We will be only keeping the information on our website (www.wsfhs.org/) which we can update more frequently than any list in non-electronic form.

Introduction

As part of its digitisation programme, the first batches of parish registers from London Metropolitan Archives and the Guildhall Library have now appeared on the Ancestry.com site.

The baptisms and burials after 1813, and marriages after 1754 have been indexed, records before that date have images only, at this stage, though indexing promised. The earlier records are arranged by groups of years reflecting the dates of the registers contained within them, the later by single year files.

Unfortunately, while this is a vast increase in the amount of material available remotely, there are several serious problems in practice.

In the indexed sections, the indexing has been performed very poorly. As a result, any searcher not finding an entry where expected is strongly recommended to search the images.

The images themselves are generally of good quality; there are missing pages, but this is perhaps to be expected in a work of this size. What should not have happened, but has, is the frequent mislabelling of records so that often the wrong parish has been listed for a group or year. Individual years are also suspect, some do not cover at all what is 'on the label'. The lists of registers, as well as being inaccurate, also give no indication of whether coverage is of baptisms, marriages or burials.

Ancestry have also quite often used draft registers, rather than the final fair copy ones – these contain different information, sometimes less, sometimes more, but this is not flagged. For the City of London, in particular, searchers are urged to get a copy of the Guildhall Library publication "City of London Parish Registers" as from this they will be able to see what manuscripts have and have not been digitised. In addition, many City parishes have been published and it will often be easier to consult digitised copies of these than the largely unindexed originals on Ancestry.

I have looked at the baptism lists and tried to identify the register from the lists available on a2a. I have not checked them page by page, and so it is probable some registers listed as available, are not completely digitised. Any user finding an error is, of course, urged to let us know through West Surrey FHS. After 1812, it has not been possible in most cases to do more than list what Ancestry claims is there, unless it looked obviously wrong.

In the lists that follow, I have separated pre-1812 and post-1812 material to try to achieve some clarity. I have shown where registers have been wrongly listed (though I would not claim completeness) with cross-references between correct and incorrect versions. The items marked (W) appear in the Poor Law section of Ancestry as opposed to the Parish Registers section.

I have also added the Borough* in which the church was located, as London Metropolitan Archives registers are so organised, and this is reflected (though not always accurately) in the Ancestry listing. As Ancestry have digitised only a few nonconformist registers as yet at least, I have deleted their entries from the list except where there is digitised material, which is in any case very long due to the addition of the new parishes founded in the Victorian era to cater for London's rapidly expanding population. For the same reason I have only listed new parishes for which there is digitised material. The new parishes have necessitated the addition of the church dedication to the ancient parishes in the list.

Cliff Webb
